Prevent Copy & Print of Tests

Caution: This is not a fool-proof method and it is possible for students to circumvent the script.

Our version of Blackboard now has an option for auto submitting tests. If needing this option, select it on the Test Options page.

This script MUST go in the INSTRUCTION area of the test. If not put into the instruction area, it will not work.

With a new test, you'll see the instruction box on the creation page. If your test has already been created, go into the test to edit the questions. At the very top of the screen, click the dropdown list next to the test name and select Edit (shown below). This will allow you to access the Instruction area of a test already on Blackboard.

In the "Instructions" section, click the "HTML" button to the far right of the third row of toolbars. A new window will open. This is where you will paste the script.

Copy following 3 codes and paste it into the HTML box:

For copy and print restrictions:

insert your instructions here
<script language="javascript" src="/webapps/pu-test-timer-bb_bb60/no-copy.js" type="text/javascript"></script>